What will I learn on this course?

You will cover the following units in your C&G Level 1 Business Administration qualification:
You will:

1. Gain an overview of working in business and administration. This unit gives an overview of what working in business administration can be like. In particular, understanding the roles of those they work with, how to carry out routine tasks and the appropriate way to present themselves.
 - a. Understand and describe different activities carried out by administrators and how their work helps a team achieve its goals.
 - b. Be able to carry out routine tasks by following instructions and using equipment.
 - c. Be able to dress appropriately and adopt a positive manner.
 - d. Be able to organise work effectively using calendars / check lists and prioritising.
 - e. To know the importance of confidentiality and be able to give examples.
2. Creating business documents. Learners use their skills to identify and produce a variety of business documents, mostly using a word processor.
 - a. Identify different types of business documents and understand their uses, including templates.
 - b. Know why it is important to use the right communication style, giving examples of formal / informal documents and the use of 'house style'.
 - c. Produce a wide variety of business documents, checking layout and spelling.
3. Using office equipment. This unit allows learners to develop the knowledge and skills to use office equipment in a business environment.
 - a. Be able to select the correct equipment for tasks from the range available, including: computer, colour printer, black only printer, photocopier, scanner, shredder, laminator, franking machine, telephone.
 - b. While using the equipment, learners must be aware of how the equipment works, health & safety procedures, and ways of avoiding wasting resources.

Is this course suitable for me?

You will need to have English at a minimum of Entry level 3, and a good background knowledge of computers. You wish to progress or develop your skill within an office environment. You will also need good IT skills. You need to know how to use Word, email and the internet. If you are interested in developing your IT skills further, we have a number of Digital Skills courses available that may help.

Is there anything I need to know about this course?

This course assumes you already have reasonable abilities using a word processor, emails and typing. All learners must first attend a pre-course meeting, where they will meet the tutors and find out more about the MAE Work Skills programme and how we can best support each individual's needs. Learners will also take part in a short assessment which will identify the qualification level or course that they will work towards. There are no exams as such, but you will need to complete a portfolio of evidence to demonstrate your acquired skills. This is completed during the lessons. Bring a folder, notebook and a pen to make personal study notes, and an electronic copy of your CV as this will be updated.

You will also have the opportunity to work on some budget planning in the first week of the course.

What could I go on to do after this course?

You may wish to take another related qualification to enhance your skills and employability for Administration roles:

- Level 2 Certificate in Principles of Business Administration, e-learning

Or undertake one of the following courses:

- Digital Skills - Microsoft Excel 1

Specialist advice is available from your tutor to help you identify the best course for you. Achieving this qualification can help you work as an admin assistant, receptionist, secretary or personal assistant.
